

Where They Are.

Four of Waskoe's braves came in to Fort Bridger a few days since, direct from the vicinity of Powder River, and bring a report which is of great interest at this time. They say that the hostile Indians are camped on that stream in large force, the lodges, about one thousand in number, being arranged in an immense circle, inclosing a large area, into which their animals are driven nights for safety. From this point bands, small and large, take their departure to commit depredations on the telegraph and stage routes and to steal horses, which are driven rapidly away to their stronghold. This, too, is the objective point to which the several columns under Gen. Connor are converging, doubtless with a full knowledge of the situation on the part of the commanding officer. Waskoe, who understands the plan of the campaign, and has perfect knowledge of the locality, declares that the Indians cannot escape, a belief which we trust may prove well founded.

How the Indians treat their Prisoners.

For the information of tender hearted people who waste a great deal of undeserved sympathy on "the noble red man" we publish the following:

STATEMENT OF MRS. EUBANKS.

Mrs. Lucinda Eubanks states she was born in Pennsylvania; is 24 years of age, she resided on the Little Blue at or near the Narrows. She says that on the 8th day of August, 1864, the house was attacked, robbed, burned, and he and two children, with her nephew and a Miss Roper, were captured by the Cheyenne Indians. Her eldest child at the time was three years old; her youngest was one year old; her nephew was six years old. When taken from her home, was, by the Indians taken south across the Republican, and west to a creek, the name of which she does not remember. Here for a short time was their village, or camping place. They were traveling all winter. When first taken by the Cheyennes, she was taken to the Lodge of an old Chief, whose name she does not collect. He forced me by the most terrible threats and promises, to yield my person to him. He treated me as his wife. He then traded me to "Two Face," a Sioux, who did not treat me as a wife, but forced me to do all menial labor done by squaws; and he beat me terribly. Two Face traded me to Isack Foot (Sioux) who treated me as his wife, and because I resisted him, his squaws abused and ill used me. Black Foot, also beat me unmercifully, and the Indians generally treated me as though I was a dog, on account of my showing so much devotion towards Black Foot. Two Face traded for me again, I then received a little better treatment. I was left to be treated among the Sioux than the Cheyennes, that is, the Sioux gave me more to eat. When with the Cheyennes, I was often hungry. Her purchase from the Cheyennes was made early last Fall, and she remained with them until May, 1865; during the winter, the Cheyennes came to buy me and the child, for the purpose of burning us, but Two Face would not let them have me. During the winter we were on the North Platte, the Indians were killing the Whites all the time and running off their stock. They would bring in the scalps of the Whites and show them to me and laugh about it. They ordered me frequently to wear my baby, but I always refused; for I felt convinced if he was weaned they would take him from me, and I should never see him again. They took my daughter from me just after we were captured, and I never saw her after. I have seen the man-to-day who had her—his name is Davenport. He lives in Denver. He received her from a Dr. Smith. She was given up by the Cheyennes to Major Wynkoop, but from injuries received while with the Indians, she died last February. My nephew also was given up to Major Wynkoop, but he too died at Denver. The Doctor said it was caused by bad treatment from the Indians. Whites encamped on the North Platte, Elston came to the village and I went with him, and Two Face to Fort Laramie.

I have heard it stated, that a story had been told by me, to the effect that Two Face's son had saved my life. I never made any such statement, as I have no knowledge of any such thing, and I think if my life had been in danger, he would not have troubled himself about it.

(Signed) LUCINDA EUBANKS.

Witness: J. H. TRIGGS, 1st Lt. Comdg. Co. "D," 7th Iowa Cavalry.

E. B. ZABRISKIE, Capt. 1st Cav. Nev. Volunteers, Judge Advocate, District of the Plains, Julesburg, C. T., June 22nd, 1865.

Mrs. Martin, captured August 9th, 1864, one and a half miles East of Plum Creek; one boy nine years old captured at the same time. Eleven men in the train at the time, all killed. Attacked at 7 o'clock, A. M., just after breaking camp; said but a short time; destroyed the train and then started directly south. Passed a small lake about eight miles—thence to the Republican Suppos. the distance to be about forty miles. Took supper there and continued the march all night.

The Indians all got drunk in the evening; they shot at me twice. There were sixty-five warriors in the party—ten Sioux, ten Arapahoes, one Kiowa, one half-breed, and the remainder Cheyennes. From the Republican we went south to Little Blue. Stopped on a small stream with no timber but willows, about half-way, and reached the village the third day in the afternoon. There were about 300 warriors out—some above and some below. There are 450 lodges in the village. Found two white women (Mrs. Eubanks and Mrs. Roper) and four children captives, in the village. They had been taken on the same road one day before I was.

In an Arapahoe village of sixty lodges, near the Cheyenne village, they had two white women prisoners, both of whom they hung. A Sioux shot a child through with four arrows, by my side; he did not stop or mutilate the body. Broke camp here and went south, and camped on a large lake, the Indians keeping a vigilant guard, as they feared pursuit—moving about an hour before daylight and camping about 3 o'clock in the evening. Left the lake before daylight, still going south. Camped on a little stream with but little timber. First few days traveled all day and part of the night, and very fast so that many of their ponies gave out. Camped this evening on Beaver Creek, a large stream of clear water, having timber—cotton-wood and hackberry. Stopped here three days, and the balance of the three hundred warriors joined them here. They bound the hands and feet of a white woman they had killed and made me witness it. They had eleven scalps of men, five of women and two of children. They had a scalp dance and a sham battle. They lived principally on dried buffalo. A few buffalo here and a great many antelope. From here we went south and camped on a small stream—distance about forty miles—thence to a large lake of clear water, about thirty miles. Stopped here two days, and then went south on to a small stream, about twenty miles. Stopped here two days. From here we went to the Arkansas river and crossed it the next morning; it is not fordable, as it swam the ponies. Camped at night on a small stream in the mountains, thence south over the mountains to a very large lake. Stopped two weeks at this place, where there is plenty of game—buffalo, elk, antelope and deer.

Here were four hundred lodges, think they will average three warriors to the lodge; counted nine hundred that went out to fight a sham battle. Here three of the chiefs left and went to some Fort. (I suppose Ft. Union,) to give up Mrs. Eubanks and Roper, but did not do so as I saw Mrs. Eubanks afterward, but never knew what became of Mrs. Roper. Here eight hundred warriors went out and were gone twelve days, they came back with the clothing of three soldiers, four scalps and a number of Government horses and mules. They had lost twenty-five warriors, they had no dance and never do when they have lost over three of their men. From here they went west, twenty miles, to a small stream, thence in the same direction 20 miles to another large one, emptying in the Arkansas; thence on the Pine Ridge thirty miles to a small lake; thence south to a small stream, and followed up in a westerly direction; from thence west to a spring; then travelled all day and all night. Next morning we came to a small stream, we stopped two days here; thence west to a small stream, thence north two days without water, (in which I suffered a great deal from thirst, so much, that I could not speak when we got to water.) we came to the Arkansas river, swam the ponies across and travelled two days and nights, all the time. We crossed a small stream during the time, and stopped next morning on a small stream. Here we rested one day, we left in the evening and travelled all night and next day, passed a small lake, and camped on a very large stream with heavy timber, quick sand in the creek, narrow bottom and sand-hills on each side. (I was taken sick here with fever and was sick fifty two days.) We stopped here nine days, then left and traveled north thirty miles and camped on a small stream with no timber; thence to the same direction thirty miles to another small stream; thence twenty miles back on to Beaver Creek; thence north to a dry creek, we had no water, except what water we carried along. I think we headed both Big and Little Blue. We came to Soda Springs, thence to the Republican, we stopped here ten days. The day before we left the village we saw a dead fifty-two lodges coming north and the balance going south. Here I saw Mrs. Eubanks the last time. We stopped to hunt Buffalo, but got none, and lived on prickly Pears.

We staid on what I supposed to be the Republican, stopped ten days here, hunting, but few Buffalo were here; left here early in the morning, traveled all day north and camped on a small lake, distance about thirty miles. Next morning we traveled west to a very large lake, about thirty miles, stayed here three days, then traveled all day and night without water and crossed the South Platte, a little after dark; traveled in the Sand Hills until almost daylight and crossed the North Platte. Here they got thirty head of cattle, stolen from the Sioux, we drove them along with us to a lake where we camped three days.

At the time we crossed the North Fork, twenty-five warriors left and went back to the road, they were gone four days, and returned with two scalps, two head of cattle and two horses. Two of the Indians had been killed. From here we went north to a small creek with a little timber, about thirty miles; thence north thirty miles to a dry creek, we carried water along with us, and from here traveled all day and night and came to a large creek and plenty of timber. We stopped here two days, then followed up the course of this stream around a mountain; camped six days on account of my sickness. I thought I would die, but the Indians insisted that I must not, as they would then not be able to get any sugar and coffee for me.

Went on in a north-westerly course to a small stream of water in the mountains which were high, rough and snowy here. From here went to a large lake in the mountains. Stopped here four days to hunt; game scarce, consisted of antelope and deer. From here to a large stream of water, heavily timbered with cotton-wood and ash. Stopped four days here awaiting the warriors, who had left on a time before, to come in, but had nothing at all when they did come, and had lost six of their number.

From here we went north out of the mountains to a very large lake—thence to a dry stream, carrying water. We then travelled all day and night, and came to a village of sixty lodges of Sioux. Camped on a small stream. Sioux made an offer to trade for me and the Cheyennes were willing, but one of the Sioux who spoke English told me if the Sioux got me, they would kill me; so I told the Cheyennes I did not want to go to the Sioux.

Next morning we travelled up stream with the Sioux of the village, half day; then the Sioux went up a small stream. Camped on this stream four days very cold and snowy. But little game here and on short allowance;—travelled up stream all day, and camped with the Sioux who were still following to trade for me; said they were from Fort Laramie, and had sugar, coffee and flour. We stopped here two days then went north about twenty-five miles to a small lake. From thence we went west, traveling all day and night with nothing to eat except horse meat, which I was not fond of, and crossed a large well beaten wagon road. Supposed it to be the Ban-nock road. There had been a bridge on the creek when we crossed here before, but it is now washed away. We swam our ponies. Considerable timber and high mountains near. We traveled the road all day, and the Indians showed me where they had killed three men, three women, and three children.—found quite a quantity of woman's hair and saw the iron where wagons had been burned; they said the bodies had been thrown in the stream. Traveled up the stream one day, then left it and went west to a smaller one about thirty miles from that. We then went north to a stream that would sink and then boil up again. A great many fish (Trout) in this stream. The Indians camped here four days to fish and caught a great many. I was sitting on the bank fishing and one of the Squaws came along and shoved me in head and heels—pretty cold bath. But little game of any kind here. From here we traveled west about thirty miles and camped on a small stream with but little timber. We then traveled all day and night, to a large well timbered creek. Stopped here days, and had nothing to eat but pony steak. From here we went north a day's travel to a very large lake; stayed one night. From here we traveled all day and came to the Cheyennes and Sioux villages of one hundred and fifty lodges on Powder River. Here I first saw the Cheyenne Indian, Gray Head, who treated me very kindly.

We stopped here six days; buffalo are plenty here and we had plenty to eat. Then traveled up Powder River one day to the base of the mountains and stopped there ten days. During the time that we stopped here, Louis Reebaw and Joe Bassette came to the village and tried to trade for me, but could not come to a proper understanding with the Indians; after they left, we moved up fifteen miles. We stopped here and made medicine six days. Here the Indians separated, three lodges going with me north on to a small stream, where we camped one night and then went on to the North Fork of Powder River; we were three days going. We passed a small lake and through a canon, about one mile and one half long; the bottom appeared to be a dry creek bottom, and sandy. The sides were perpendicular and about one hundred feet high and as red as steel; there was only one big rock in the bottom.

We staid on the North Fork seven days waiting for the balance of the Indians to join us. We moved up the North Fork one day's travel and staid fourteen days, when Joe Bassette came out and traded for me. We was six days coming from there into Deer Creek.

LATE STATES ITEMS.

THE London Herald says the North has lost a million and a half of men in the war, and argues thence that the Government is weak and exhausted.

A hard working clerk of Des Moines, Iowa, has, by the death of an uncle in Wisconsin, fallen heir to four good farms, and nineteen thousand dollars in cash.

ONE of the toasts: "Saratega Springs, the politician's paradise, where any man can run for Congress!—water."

THE Southerners in Paris are said to owe two millions of francs. Eleven are in the debtor's prison.

AMONG the persons who pay big incomes taxes in Springfield, Mass., are Horace Smith (Smith & Wesson, pistol manufacturers), on $79,000; Dantel B. Wesson, (do.), $50,072; Dr. J. G. Holland, (proprietor of the Springfield Republican), $26,854; Samuel Bowles, (do.), $13,000; Clark W. Bryan, (do.), $9,000; Benjamin F. Howles, (do.), $9,000; J. F. Tapley, (do.), $6,000; giving an aggregate of $54,154 as the net profits of the Springfield Republican. This does pretty well for a journal sent out from a town of less than 20,000 people.

WASHINGTON advises say that the vacant United States Supreme Court Judgeship lies between the Hon. Horace Maynard, of Tennessee, and Attorney General Speed. It is said that the President feels inclined to favor Mr. Maynard, from the fact that his son-in-law threw him out of the United States Senatorship of Tennessee.

GENERAL McDOWELL has just issued an order from which, as published in the Sacramento Union, we extract:

Such of the officers of L and M. Second Cavalry, California Volunteers, as are serving in this department will, without delay, repair to the headquarters of the District of the Plains—Denver City, Colorado Territory—and report for duty. Lieutenant Colonel Ambrose E. Hooker, Sixth Infantry, California Volunteers, is relieved as a member of the General Court-martial, instituted in Special Orders No. 4, current series, and will repair to the District of Nevada, and assume command of the same.

The headquarters of the Sixth Regiment of Infantry, California Volunteers, will be established at Fort Churchill, to which point the Regimental Staff—commissioned and non-commissioned—will repair, taking with them the records pertaining thereto.

THEY must be edited in Idaho, say at Boise city, considering the style and versatility of amusements advertised there. At last accounts, a panorama of the civil war in America, ancient Bible scenes, statuary, classic and comic views, &c. were being exhibited at Boise City, a week ago to-night. In connection with it, was a "sword-swallower, a stone-eater and a snake-charmer."

Local and Miscellaneous.

Do tend to select music, which is of more and better quality than the old-fashioned tunes, and which will be the point, any day. (Ring.)

One of the Rothschilds won $200,000 on the French Derby races.

ATTENTION ISRAELITES.—See notice to you in another column.

A Boston man lately got a fine set of teeth inserted for nothing. He kicked a dog.

THALBERG, the great pianist, has settled down on a farm and vineyard near Paris.

THE CREME DE LA CREME cast are wearing the crownless bonnets. Look out for a new style more ridiculous than ever.

LEO LEE WESTERN, the well known actress, has arrived safely in England and received quite an ovation from her friends.

THE PROPRIETOR of the Philadelphia Ledger has purchased a new building for an office at an expense of $300,000.

NO SERVICE.—Owing to the illness of the Rev. N. McLeod, no service will be held to-morrow either in the City or in the Camp.

ON the evening of August 7th, a man named S. W. Wright was robbed on the Bedford road, near Carson, Nev. of $2,426. Three men were engaged in the robbery.

SPLENDID BILL TO NIGHT.—Real programme of this evening's entertainment at the Theater. It is a glorious one, indeed.

THE NOTORIOUS "QUANTREL," calling himself William Clark, 4th Missouri Cavalry, died lately in the Military Prison Hospital, Louisville, Ky.

Governor Evans of Colorado, is, in public speeches, discussing the subjects of the construction of the Pacific rail road and the ratification of the mining titles of the Territory.

THE BEE mentions a three-legged chicken hatched in Sacramento, much to the astonishment of the old hen. It doesn't state how it affected the "party of the second part."

FOR a couple of weeks past we haven't seen or heard of the hebdomadal yclept the "Idaho City World." What's up? Why in the world don't you send your "World," say?

THE REASON WHY.—We heard it stated that many of the Mormon Benedicts excuse themselves on the score of marrying so many wives, by saying that they had to try a considerable number in order to get a good one!

ATTEMPT TO ASSASSINATE.—We are informed of a most dastardly attempt on the lives of Rev. Norman McLeod and Mr. Lee, in Salt Lake City, on the night of the 17th inst., particulars of which will appear on Monday.

A report was current yesterday, at the meat market, that Rosenbaum, formerly of this place, was just hanged in Virginia City, Montana. But, after following up the streak we found no bedrock of truth to base it on, except idle rumor.

MR. CARPENTER, who was one of the fortunate in that Port Neuf Cañon massacre, was a passenger per last coach from Montana. He seems satisfied to have escaped unhurt, even though he had to play for dead while they took before his eyes his thousands.

A man in Virginia City, lately, was troubled with bedbugs in and about his bed, so he lit a paper and went about the room burning them off the bed and wall. The cloth lining of the room soon caught fire, and the house became so rapidly involved in flames that he barely escaped with his life. That was more than the bedbugs did, however.

THE BOISE CITY Statesman, of the 12th, says that crowds of immigrants through the streets from early morn till close of day. But that most of them are bound for Oregon. For a few days past, we might say that crowds of immigrants from Boise through these streets from "early morn till close of day." But most of 'em are bound for "Ameriky."

WE saw a Jew peddler packing a big bale of "Jhry goods" and a tin box with "summer jewelry" around town this week. We must be getting civilized here sure. The world moves, and Mormonism must keep pace. An organ-grinder is now all that's needed and the town is finished!

A GOOD OX ON A WARD.—When that little child of Momus, (C. F. Brown) was here in Mormondom, getting off his "goats" piecemeal from the Salt Lake stage, an old husky Scotchman by the name of Horrieke, hearing Artemus introduce the "Babe" by remarking that he once had the bronchitis, and had them many and very bad—turned round to six or seven of his wives who formalized the bench behind him and remarked, with Caledonian brogue but with much truth and shrewdness: "That funny fellow is mistaken in the name of the complaint; he must have had the Broune cheetue, for he has 'em still!"

The interesting "Testimony," published elsewhere, monopolizes space today.

PERSONAL.—Maj. N. Baldwin, 1st Batt. Nev. Cav., commanding Fort Bridger, is paying a visit to Camp and City. He reached here on Wednesday, and will remain a few days.

Ten or fifteen freight and pilgrim parties, with their wagons, women, stock and children, are camped in Emigrant Square corral.—considerable of a corral too, to take in ten square acres!

SABBATHS.—With us Sunday is the Sabbath. With the Greeks, it is observed on Monday; with the Persians, Tuesday; with the Assyrians, Wednesday; with the Egyptians, Thursday; with the Turks, Friday; and Saturday by the Jews.

THE TIGER.—Last month Gen. Grant issued an order to his subordinates, to break up all the faro banks in the United States. The General will find the Tiger more tenacious of life than the Fire-eater.

DIAMONDS.—While acting in some of the plays, a few evenings since, Mrs. Julia Dean Hayne had on a wealth of diamonds, worth no doubt a score of thousands. A necklace that was a string of sparkles; a brooch of brilliant binding an oval opal, whose peculiar play of colors was plainly visible afar; and a bracelet beautiful as the hand that held it.

MONTANA ITEMS.—We learn from the Post of the 12th, that the well-known firm of Rockefeller & Dennee, general merchants of Virginia City, has dissolved; Mr. Rockefeller continuing the business and Mr. Dennee returning to the States.

Mr. Ashley was presented with a native gold arrangement in the shape of a ring, connecting two nuggets, and with an inscription as below:

To the Honorable J. M. Ashley,

The Father of the Territory.

One nugget, from Alder Gulch, is a fine specimen of white quartz and gold combined. The other is from Blackfoot, and is of pure gold. On one side the natural conformation of the gold presents a striking resemblance to the profile of an Indian, and on the other is a likeness of a Cate Yankee. The value of the gold in the nuggets is $130. The Indian first and the omnipresent New Englander following, is suggestive. The Indian walked over the gold—The Yankee walks into it.

Churches, schools and Sunday schools seem to be encouraged and attended in Virginia and Helena also.

Theatricals don't appear in the Post, probably because Thespian has "busted."

X Bitter has returned from a horse ride to Walla Walla, making the trip 600 miles, in only eight days!

Coon Barnum and Andy Knight (illustrious name!) immortalized themselves in a fool race at Last Chance; Barnum beating about eight feet!

Speaking of the markets the Post says:

The market during the past week for staples and provisions, exhibits no essential change.

Flour has been dull, the demand being limited, with a fair supply in the market.

In Bacon and Provisions the market is quiet; the demand is limited and confined to retail dealers. Hams scarce and firm, with an upward tendency for choice and prime.

Our Grocery market continues firm. We have but few changes to note. Coffee, sugar, teas and lading staples very firm at last quotations, with an active market.
